For Immediate Release

International Coalition Remembers the African Ancestors of the Middle Passage – the Maafa

USA, May, 2017: The International Coalition to Commemorate the African Ancestors of the Middle Passage (ICCAAMP) presents its annual international commemoration to Remember the Ancestors of the Middle Passage - the Maafa, the second weekend of June (June 10 and 11, 2017) with simultaneous activities hosted by ICCAAMP members in African-descended communities the United States and internationally beginning with prayers and the pouring of libation promptly at 12 noon on Saturday, and continued prayer services at Black religious and spiritual institutions on Sunday.

The annual commemoration provides an opportunity for members of the African-descended community to remember the millions of Africans -- men, women, and children, who were sold, kidnapped, shipped and who died along the route from Africa to the Americas. By remembering, we honor and restore the humanity of the nameless faceless Ancestors, and disrupt the collective amnesia. We also begin the process of healing from the fear, pain, guilt and shame of the experience that continues to traumatize the African descended community today, and we start the restoration of cultural identity, dignity and pride. ICCAAMP also honors and commemorates those who survived the transatlantic trafficking in African people, the Maafa, to draw upon their strength, courage and determination to overcome obstacles of enormous magnitude. ICAAMP is calling upon individuals in the Black community who are unable to host their own commemorations or participate in activities hosted by Coalition members, to observe a minute of silence and prayer wherever they are at 12 noon, on the Saturday, to remember the Ancestors of the Maafa. The Coalition is also requesting all Black religious and spiritual institutions to dedicate a service in remembrance of the Ancestors of the Middle Passage.

For decades, ICCAAMP member organizations have been conducting annual events primarily during the month of June that commemorate the spirit of these Afrikan Ancestors who have for years gone unrecognized and or forgotten. The Coalition was created to unify the important work of these organizations; to provide information to the public regarding where the Pan African Ancestral commemorations will take place; and to encourage individuals and organizations in the Black community to host their own commemoration. With this in mind, ICCAAMP has developed a set of suggestions (located on the ICCAAMP website) for those individuals and organizations who desire to develop their own ceremonies to commemorate the African Ancestors of the Middle Passage.

Ceremonies take place nationally in: Brooklyn, New York; Washington, DC; Charleston and Georgetown, South Carolina; Hampton and Fredericksburg, Virginia; Annapolis, Maryland; Newport, Rhode Island; Boston, Massachusetts, New Orleans, Louisiana; York and Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Houston, Texas; Los Angeles, San Francisco and Oakland, California; Montgomery, Alabama; Miami, Florida; Detroit, Michigan; and internationally in Benin, Cameroon, Cuba, Senegal, Nigeria, Panama, Barbados, Brazil, Jamaica and Ghana and Venezuela. ICCAAMP is seeking to identify other African-descended communities which conduct commemoration ceremonies as well as those who are interested in hosting ceremonies to join the Coalition. For a complete list of commemoration locations, please visit the ICCAAMP website at www.RememberTheAncestors.com. Follow us on facebook at www.facebook.com.Remembertheancestors.com.

Founded in 2015, the International Coalition to Commemorate African Ancestors of the Middle Passage (ICCAAMP) has been formed to organize activities that are designed to remember the millions of Africans who were sold, kidnapped, shipped then died along the route from Africa to the Americas. We also honor and commemorate those who survived the transatlantic trafficking in African people known as the Maafa, Black Holocaust, and Middle Passage.
